Spalding's Athletic Library

A. G. SPALDING

Anticipating the present tendency of the American people toward a healthful method of living and enjoyment, Spalding's Athletic Library was established in 1892 for the purpose of encouraging athletics in every form, not only by publishing the official rules and records pertaining to the various pastimes, but also by instructing, until to-day Spalding's Athletic Library is unique in its own particular field and has been conceded the greatest educational series on athletic and physical training subjects that has ever been compiled.

The publication of a distinct series of books devoted to athletic sports and pastimes and designed to occupy the premier place in America in its class was an early idea of Mr. A. G. Spalding, who was one of the first in America to publish a handbook devoted to athletic sports, Spalding's Official Base Ball Guide being the initial number, which was followed at intervals with other handbooks on the sports prominent in the '70s.

Spalding's Athletic Library has had the advice and counsel of Mr. A. G. Spalding in all of its undertakings, and particularly in all books devoted to the national game. This applies especially to Spalding's Official Base Ball Guide and Spalding's Official Base Ball Record, both of which receive the personal attention of Mr. A. G. Spalding, owing to his early connection with the game as the leading pitcher of the champion Boston and Chicago teams of 1872-76. His interest does not stop, however, with matters pertaining to base ball; there is not a sport that Mr. Spalding does not make it his business to become familiar with, and that the library will always maintain its premier place, with Mr. Spalding's able counsel at hand, goes without saying.

The entire series since the issue of the first number has been under the direct personal supervision of Mr. James E. Sullivan, President of the American Sports Publishing Company, and the total series of consecutive numbers reach an aggregate of considerably over three hundred, included in which are many "annuals," that really constitute the history of their particular sport in America year by year, back copies of which are even now eagerly sought for, constituting as they do the really first authentic records of events and official rules that have ever been consecutively compiled.

When Spalding's Athletic Library was founded, seventeen years ago, track and field athletics were practically unknown outside the larger colleges and a few athletic clubs in the leading cities, which gave occasional meets, when an entry list of 250 competitors was a subject of comment; golf was known only by a comparatively few persons; lawn tennis had some vogue and base ball was practically the only established field sport, and that in a professional way; basket ball had just been invented; athletics for the schoolboy—and schoolgirl—were almost unknown, and an advocate of class contests in athletics in the schools could not get a hearing. To-day we find the greatest body of athletes in the world is the Public Schools Athletic League of Greater New York, which has had an entry list at its annual games of over two thousand, and in whose "elementary series" in base ball last year 106 schools competed for the trophy emblematic of the championship.

While Spalding's Athletic Library cannot claim that the rapid growth of athletics in this country is due to it solely, the fact cannot be denied that the books have had a great deal to do with its encouragement, by printing the official rules and instructions for playing the various games at a nominal price, within the reach of everyone, with the sole object that its series might be complete and the one place where a person could look with absolute certainty for the particular book in which he might be interested.

In selecting the editors and writers for the various books, the leading authority in his particular line has been obtained, with the result that no collection of books on athletic subjects can compare with Spalding's Athletic Library for the prominence of the various authors and their ability to present their subjects in a thorough and practical manner.

A short sketch of a few of those who have edited some of the leading numbers of Spalding's Athletic Library is given herewith:

JAMES E. SULLIVAN

President American Sports Publishing Company; entered the publishing house of Frank Leslie in 1878, and has been connected continuously with the publishing business since then and also as athletic editor of various New York papers; was a competing athlete; one of the organizers of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States; has been actively on its board of governors since its organization until the present time, and President for two successive terms; has attended every championship meeting in America since 1879 and has officiated in some capacity in connection with American amateur championships track and field games for nearly twenty-five years; assistant American director Olympic Games, Paris, 1900; director Pan-American Exposition athletic department, 1901; chief department physical culture Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904; secretary American Committee Olympic Games, at Athens, 1906; honorary director of Athletics at Jamestown Exposition, 1907; secretary American Committee Olympic Games, at London, 1908; member of the Pastime A. C., New York; honorary member Missouri A. C., St. Louis; honorary member Olympic A. C., San Francisco; ex-president Pastime A. C., New Jersey A. C., Knickerbocker A. C.; president Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. for fifteen years; president Outdoor Recreation League; with Dr. Luther H. ## WALTER CAMP

For quarter of a century Mr. Walter Camp of Yale has occupied a leading position in college athletics. It is immaterial what organization is suggested for college athletics, or for the betterment of conditions, insofar as college athletics is concerned, Mr. Camp has always played an important part in its conferences, and the great interest in and high plane of college sport to-day, are undoubtedly due more to Mr. Camp than to any other individual. Mr. Camp has probably written more on college athletics than any other writer and the leading papers and magazines of America are always anxious to secure his expert opinion on foot ball, track and field athletics, base ball and rowing. Mr. Camp has grown up with Yale athletics and is a part of Yale's remarkable athletic system. While he has been designated as the "Father of Foot Ball," it is a well known fact that during his college career Mr. Camp was regarded as one of the best players that ever represented Yale on the base ball field, so when we hear of Walter Camp as a foot ball expert we must also remember his remarkable knowledge of the game of base ball, of which he is a great admirer. Mr. Camp has edited Spalding's Official Foot Ball Guide since it was first published, and also the Spalding Athletic Library book on How to Play Foot Ball. There is certainly no man in American college life better qualified to write for Spalding's Athletic Library than Mr. Camp.

DR. LUTHER HALSEY GULICK

DR. HENRY S. ANDERSON

Has been connected with Yale University for years and is a recognized authority on gymnastics; is admitted to be one of the leading authorities in America on gymnastic subjects; is the author of many books on physical training.

Introduction

No year is complete in base ball without its history of prowess and skill on the field of sport. No history is complete without its authentic and accurate record of events. The SPALDING OFFICIAL BASE BALL RECORD of to-day has become the national Base Ball diary of the year. Within its pages the reader finds information which brings to mind sterling performances of skilled athletes who delighted his sense of vision and true appreciation of the values of winning in the season before.

Further than that, the SPALDING OFFICIAL BASE BALL RECORD summarizes the great performances of other years in tables which are most conveniently arranged for the benefit of enthusiasts and critics, whose necessity for information as to the data of events of the past must lead them to books of reference.

To the publishers of the RECORD the appreciation of the public, which has made the volume such a wholesome success, has been one of the most flattering details of the venture. Now in its third year the work has become accepted as a standard annual, and has proved a most companionable adjunct to the parent Base Ball authority, SPALDING'S OFFICIAL BASE BALL GUIDE.

A record, it has been suggested by some, is necessarily a summary of dry and uninteresting figures. That this is not true of SPALDING'S OFFICIAL BASE BALL RECORD, in spite of the fact that figures are the principal recording index of Base Ball history, and a positive essential to the preservation of the facts of Base Ball, is attested by one of the readers of the RECORD from the date of its first number.

He says: "I find it a panorama of the past, not a bookkeeping account of the leagues. Every page of the details of other days bring back vivid recollections of men who were once prominent in the national game, or data of wonderful deeds which needed the indexing of a single volume to preserve them. I see all history of organized Base Ball almost at a glance and it seems only yesterday that I was a part of it and in the councils of those who have made their impress on the national pastime when a score of yesterdays would barely account for all the time."

It is information of this character which the RECORD is placing year after year before the Base Ball enthusiasts of the United States. Years hence the RECORD will be an essential—as it is to-day—to every good library of sport in the United States, because it will contain more completely in a smaller space the history of organized Base Ball and the annual achievements of the players than it will be possible to find elsewhere.

The huge strides which Base Ball has been making have rendered it imperative that a volume of this character be compiled for the benefit of the game as well as the readers. Thirty years ago a Base Ball publication which had to do strictly with the sport dealt with less than half a dozen leagues. Now Base Ball historians must deal with two score and more leagues, and more are to come, for the possibilities of organized Base Ball have not been touched upon but little more than they were in 1875.

That statement is by no means an exaggeration. The growth of the United States in population has been extraordinary, but the room for three times this population still exists, and there is room for even more.

THOMAS J. LYNCH.

Thomas J. Lynch, who will serve as the president of the National League for the year to come, was born in New Britain, Conn., and is fifty-one years of age. He began to umpire about 1884, in a semi-professional capacity. A year or two later he was with the Eastern League and his first year in the National League was in 1888. He succeeded so well in that year that in the season following he established himself as one of the best umpires in Base Ball. On the diamond Mr. Lynch was an autocrat. No umpire lived who insisted upon and demanded such recognition of the office as he did. He refused to permit players to address him, unless they called him "Mr. Umpire" or "Mr. Lynch," and had no hesitancy in ordering them from the field if they declined to obey his orders. He was fearless and upright and his honesty was never questioned. His impartiality was such that visiting teams usually hailed with satisfaction the announcement that he had been scheduled to umpire a series of games. Not all of the managers and owners of Base Ball were pleased with all of his

The Year in Base Ball

JANUARY.

- 4—Meeting of the National Commission began at Cincinnati; members of the Eastern League and American Association also convened at Cincinnati at the same time in reference to securing a new classification, and the committee of the National Association of Minor League Clubs was present. Sebring was reinstated to organized Base Ball; Ward was also reinstated; both had been members of the Tri-State League in outlaw times; members of the Washington club, who had been suspended, were reinstated on the payment of a nominal fine. The National Commission decided that major league clubs could ask waivers on purchased players December 1, instead of February 1, under the old rule.
- 5—The Eastern League and the American Association were advanced to a special AA class at the Cincinnati conference; the same permission was given to the Pacific Coast League and accepted. Cincinnati secured McGann of Boston and Hostetter of St. Louis and traded both players to Milwaukee for Roth, catcher. Brooklyn signed Sebring. New York Americans claimed Ward.
- 6—M. H. Sexton of Rock Island was elected president of the National Association, to succeed P. T. Powers, resigned. F. R. Carson of South Bend, Ind., was elected a member of the National Board of Arbitration, to succeed J. D. O'Brien, resigned. Maximum price of tickets to the world's series was fixed at $2 and minimum at fifty cents.
- 9—Application was received by the National Commission from Chase for reinstatement. Truby and Cusack were announced as two new umpires for the National League.
- 10—Comiskey announced that he had completed the purchase of the old Brotherhood ground in Chicago and that it would be the home of the Chicago American League club when he had completed his lease with South Side Park. Detroit reported the sale of Coughlin, third baseman and captain of the team, to Albany. Coughlin to act as manager of the new club.
- 11—With the consent of the National Commission Charles W. Murphy of the Chicago club said he would present the world's champions with the sum of $10,000 for winning the National League championship in 1908.
- 24—New York American League Club made public the transfer of Moriarty to Detroit for the season of 1909.
- 30—The New York National League club announced that McGinnity would be permitted to make a contract with any club that he desired for 1909, that Barry had been sold to Milwaukee and Needham to St. Paul. Evans was transferred to the St. Louis Nationals.

FEBRUARY.

- 3—Chase reinstated to organized Base Ball by the order of the National Commission contingent upon a fine of $200. Luther Taylor, New York pitcher, released to Buffalo of the Eastern League, and Beecher, New York pitcher, released to Rochester of the Eastern League. Weimer of Cincinnati was reinstated by the National Commission, subject to the payment of a fine of $150.
- 4—John Clarkson, former National League pitcher, one of the most famous Base Ball players in the history of the national game, having served as pitcher for Chicago, Boston and Cleveland, died at Waltham, Mass. Clarkson was developed by the Chicago club and sold to Boston for a record-breaking sum.
- 6—William Murray, manager of the Philadelphia National League club, purchased the stock of that club which had been held by Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg. After a long controversy with the president of the Chicago National League club, Frank Chance, manager of the club, announced that he had signed a contract with Chicago for three years; one of the clauses in the agreement between him and the owner of the club was that Chance was to have full charge of the players on the field.

- 16—Browne, right fielder of the Boston National League club, was released to the Chicago Nationals. Young, pitcher of the Boston Americans, was released to the Cleveland club for Chech and Ryan and a cash consideration. Cravath, outfielder of the Boston Americans, was released to the Chicago Americans. The playing schedule of the National League for the season of 1909 was adopted at the annual meeting at Chicago. Harry C. Pulliam, president, and John A. Heydler, secretary and treasurer of the National League, gave a dinner to newspaper writers in Chicago. Revelle, pitcher of the New York Americans, was returned to the Richmond, Va., club.
- 17—Members of the National League decided to amend their constitution so that umpires in the future will not have the power to fine players for infractions of the rules; offenders may be sent to the club house and are not to be allowed to loiter in the grandstand or in the bleachers. In case the visiting team enters a protest as to the condition of the grounds, which has been decided unfit to play by the home club, the manager of the home club is not to have any voice in the matter on final appeal to the umpire. In the future when a pitcher is taken out of the box his successor must remain in the game until he has retired at least one man. Conroy of the New York Americans was transferred to the Washington club of that organization. Downs of the Detroit club was transferred to the Chicago Americans. The American League schedule was published and called for the opening in the East on April 12, in advance of the National League. Smith, catcher of the St. Louis Americans, was released to the Atlanta club. Boston Americans signed Wolters, who had been playing outlaw Base Ball in California.
- 18—Harry Clay Pulliam, president of the National League, was granted an indefinite leave of absence by that organization because of ill-health, and John A. Heydler, secretary and treasurer of the organization, was delegated to act for Pulliam, being authorized also to represent the National League on the National Commission. The National League abolished ladies' days at all parks of the organization. The amendment to the National Agreement was ratified by the National League, by which clubs in the major leagues will be limited to twenty-five players each, between May 15 and August 20, and to thirty-five players each after the latter date mentioned; in the Class AA league they will be limited to sixteen players and 25 players within the same dates mentioned. Games postponed in the season are to be played on dates fixed by the home clubs on the day of postponement. When double-headers are played in the future the home club must notify the umpires of its intention. McGlynn, pitcher for the St. Louis National League club, was transferred to the Milwaukee club. Durbin and Downey, of the Chicago Nationals, were traded to Cincinnati for Kane, outfielder.
- 22—The death of John Hatfield, who had held the record for long-distance throwing since 1872, was announced in Long Island City, N. Y. Many efforts had been made to equal or surpass Hatfield's record, but none of them had been successful; at the field day for ball players, held in 1907 in Cincinnati, Lejeune, a fielder of the Springfield, O., club, came within a few inches of equaling Hatfield's record.
- 24—Israel W. Durham, James P. McNichol and Clarence Wolf purchased a majority of the shares of the Philadelphia National League Base Ball club from the twenty stockholders who had obtained the club from Messrs. Reach and Rogers.
- 26—Israel W. Durham was elected president of the Philadelphia National League club, James P. McNichol, vice-president; William J. Shettsline, secretary, and C. F. Wagner, treasurer; the stock was transferred to the new organization and James Potter severed his formal connection with Base Ball; William Murray was continued as manager and the new owners said they would not change the plans made for the season of 1909.

- 27—Joseph McGinnity, former pitcher for the New York National League club, was given his unconditional release by John T. Brush, who said that McGinnity had been a credit and honor to Base Ball.

MARCH.

- 2—The sale of the Newark club of the Eastern League to H. C. Smith of Chicago and "Joe" McGinnity, former pitcher for the Giants, was announced by the former owners of the club.
- 5—Eastern League met at New York for annual spring schedule consideration. The sale of Lewis, shortstop of Brooklyn, to the Baltimore club was announced.
- 18—George C. Bennett of Memphis purchased the stock of the New Orleans Base Ball club, and it was announced that Leonard Stern, who had been president of the organization for four years, would resign, to be succeeded by Mr. Bennett.
- 19—Coveleskie of the Philadelphia National League club pitched the first no-hit-no-run game of the year against the Trinity College team at Durham, N. C.; twenty-seven college men went to bat, and but for a fine line catch by Hanford, Coveleskie's feat might have been spoiled; Philadelphia made but one run against the college boys.
- 21—John Kling, catcher of the Chicago National League club, announced in Kansas City that he had decided to refrain from playing ball for a year, because business in Kansas City demanded his attention.
- 25—For the second time during its practice season the Boston American League club made a triple play against Memphis; the occurrence is unusual enough to demand record.
- 31—National Commission announced a new rule by which players who jump their contracts will be suspended for five years. Players who fail to report to clubs which have a title to their services and join outlaw organizations instead, will be suspended for three years. The reason given was that the Commission had decided to place a severe punishment on players who had shown a disposition to avoid the control of organized Base Ball in order to add to their exchequer, anticipating a light punishment upon their application to be reinstated.

APRIL.

- 8—Hal Chase, the great first baseman of the New York American League club, was stricken with smallpox while in the South. Members of the team were vaccinated and quarantined on their way North.
- 9—Milton Sears, who played ball with the Paterson Olympics when they were famous, died at Paterson, N. J.
- 10—In the game between Yale and the Giants on the Polo Grounds in New York, Meyers of the New York team made two home runs in succession. The Philadelphia Nationals won their fifth game in six from the Athletics and the city championship.
- 12—American League season opened in Philadelphia and Washington. There was a record-breaking attendance at both places. In Philadelphia the new stands of the Athletics were dedicated. Thirty-one thousand one hundred and sixty persons saw the game. The attendance at Washington was 15,000. It is estimated that 10,000 more spectators would have entered the Philadelphia grounds had the gates not been ordered closed. Charles Comiskey, the owner of the Chicago American League club, announced the appointment of William Sullivan, catcher, as manager of the team, to succeed Fielder Jones, who had announced his intention of retiring on account of business interests. George Miller, former Pittsburg catcher, died in Brooklyn.
- 14—The National League season was opened in Boston, Chicago and Cincinnati; rain prevented the game in New York with Brooklyn. The American League season was opened in St. Louis and Detroit. Coveleskie was batted out of the box in the fifth inning at Boston.

THE TWO CHAMPION BATTERS OF THEIR RESPECTIVE LEAGUES, TY COBB AND HANS WAGNER, SHAKING HANDS AT THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES.

Cincinnati played before the largest crowd on record in that city. Dahlen was the first batter to rap the ball over the left field fence in Boston in 1909. But one hit was made by Chicago against Mullin in Detroit.

- 15—Season opened at the Polo Grounds in New York, Brooklyn defeating the Giants in thirteen innings, 3 to 0; attendance was about 30,000; Ames pitched for nine innings without Brooklyn making a hit; only two men reached first base; Ames struck out nine in nine innings; it was the first time in the history of Base Ball that a pitcher has pitched a no-hit nine-inning contest on the first day of the season; the outfielders of the New York club did not have a put-out in thirteen innings. J. F. Cone, one of the veterans in Base Ball, who played under Harry Wright in the early '70s, died in Chicago.
- 16—In the game between the New York Americans and the Athletics the bases were twice filled with no one out on the New York side, and both times Schlitzer, the Philadelphia pitcher, succeeded in retiring the side.
- 17—Announcement was made that Slagle of the Chicagos had been transferred to the Boston National League club. Marquard and Meyers, the battery which cost the New York National League club $17,000, officiated for the first time in a National League game and won from Philadelphia by the score of 4 to 1; three hits were made against Marquard. In the game between Washington and Boston the unusual play occurred of a runner passing another on the base line. Niles hit for two bases and ran by Danzig, who had stopped, fearing the ball would be caught; Niles was called out.
- 18—Announcement was made at Pittsburg that the new $1,000,000 field in that city had been christened Forbes Field, in honor of the English general who founded Pittsburg. Both Cincinnati and Detroit turned out crowds larger than ever had been seen in those cities. The attendance at Detroit was 18,478 and at Cincinnati 19,187. Pittsburg defeated Chicago in a twelve-inning game by the score of 1 to 0.
- 19—Winter, pitcher of the Detroit club, was transferred to the Montreal club of the Eastern League. Detroit's management announced the purchase of half of Bennett Field, and asserted that a new concrete and steel stand would be built for the club in another year. Attendance at the Boston National League club was the largest in the afternoon that had seen a game on the South End grounds since the American League obtained a foothold in Boston.
- 20—Opening of American League season in New York postponed because of the cold. Gardner of the New York Americans was transferred to the Jersey City club of the Eastern League. Detroit received its first defeat of the season after winning five straight games; Cleveland defeated the champions. At the meeting of the National Commission in Cincinnati it was decided that an effort had been made in New York to bribe Umpires Klem and Johnstone prior to the deciding game with Chicago last season, and while the members of the Commission declined to make public the name of the individual who had offered the bribe, they informed all the clubs in the major leagues of his identity with an order that he should be barred from all Base Ball grounds in their circuits. It was formally agreed by the clubs of the major leagues that they would make a determined stand against the outlaw leagues in California and not consider their claims under any pretense.
- 21—Unveiling ceremonies for the "Father" Chadwick monument were held in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn; Miss Leonora V. Caylor, daughter of the late O. P. Caylor, a former well-known Base Ball writer and manager, pulled the cord, unloosening a national flag, and the oration was delivered by William Hudson, a life-long friend of the dead writer; President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club presented the monument to the family in behalf of organized Base Ball. Opening of the American League season in New York was postponed because of rain; the Philadelphia National League opening was also postponed, as was that at Cleveland.
- 22—Brooklyn opened the season on its home ground with an attendance of 25,000, said to be a record for that field; New York won by the score of 8 to 5; Murray batted the ball over the fence in right center field, one of the longest hits ever made on the ground. The New York Americans opened the season on their home field with an attendance of 12,000; New York defeated Washington 8-1. Eastern League season opened at Newark, Jersey City, Baltimore and Providence.

- 26—Dr. Maurice R. Powers, catcher for the Athletics, who was taken ill after the game with Boston on the 12th, died in Philadelphia.
- 27—Michael J. Dorgan, member of Syracuse, St. Louis and New York clubs, died at Hartford.
- 29—Snow fell in New York, preventing the Bostons and New Yorks from playing; it was the first time that snow ever had interrupted an April contest in the metropolis. Funeral of Dr. Maurice B. Powers was held in Philadelphia; ten thousand persons viewed the body; he was buried in New Cathedral Cemetery, the players of the Washington, Brooklyn, Athletic and Philadelphia clubs forming in line and leading the hearse from the house, where the body had remained in state, to St. Elizabeth's Church, where the ceremonies were held. Evers joined the Chicago club in Cincinnati.
- 30—The application of Knolls, formerly a pitcher of the Brooklyn Base Ball club, for reinstatement was granted by the National Commission subject to the payment of a fine of $50.

MAY.

- 1—Twice during the game in Detroit between St. Louis and Detroit the umpire was compelled to call time because of snow. Moriarty, of the Detroit club, for the second time during the week stole home. Walsh, the famous pitcher of the Chicago American League club, made application to the National Commission for reinstatement. Evers signed a two-year contract with the Chicago National League club. Jones, pitcher for the Detroit Americans, was transferred to the Indianapolis club of the American League. Hulswitt of the Cincinnati, was reported transferred to the St. Louis National League club.
- 2—Pittsburg won a double-header from Chicago at Chicago, the first time that such a thing had happened in years; Overall was beaten by Camnitz and Reulbach and Hagerman lost to Leiffield; Wagner stole second, third and home in the first inning of the second game, with Meran catching.

Chicago lost its third straight game to Pittsburg on the Chicago grounds, sixteen Chicago players taking part in the contest.
- 4—National Commission announced that inasmuch as the minor league clubs had not signed the new National Agreement, which had been submitted, the old National Agreement would be in effect for the year to come. Morgan, of Boston Americans, lost his game to Washington by the score of 1 to 0 by making a balk. Pittsburg again defeated the Chicago Nationals in eleven innings by the score of 1 to 0.
- 5—Garry Herrmann, chairman of the National Commission, stated that the sole reason for abrogating the agreement which was entered into at Cincinnati with the minor leagues was that Messrs. O'Brien, president of the American Association, and Powers, president of the Eastern League, apparently had forgotten to sign it, and it became necessary to have some laws by which to conduct Base Ball affairs; the only thing that the National Commission could do was

- 6—New York Nationals won a double-header from the Bostons and pulled out of last place; the second game was won in the twelfth inning with the score 1 to 0. Pittsburg won from St. Louis in eleven innings by the score of 6 to 5.
  - 7—The protest of the game between Cincinnati and Pittsburg was not allowed by acting president Heydler of the National League; the protest was made on the ground that Wagner jumped from one side of the batting box to the other; the decision of the umpire, Klem, was sustained.
  - 8—Evers and Walsh, the former second baseman of the Chicago Nationals, and the latter pitcher for the Chicago Americans, were fined $100 each for failing to report to their clubs on May 1.

Waivers were asked on Fraser and Coakley, pitchers for the Chicago National League club.
  - 10—Ground was broken at Chicago for the new American League Base Ball park in that city; Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the plant, said that he would invest about $500,000 in it to improve it, as he thought it would answer for the purposes of his team. Chicago Americans defeated the Washingtons by the score of 1 to 0 in an eleven-inning game; Johnson and White were the pitchers for Washington and Chicago respectively.
  - 11—McLean, catcher for the Cincinnati, made four hits in four times at bat against Boston; one was a two-bagger.
  - 12—Browne of the Chicago Nationals was transferred to the Washington team and Coakley of the Chicagos to the Louisville club. Evers and Doyle, second basemen of the Chicago and New York clubs, played without an assist in the game. Meyers, catcher for the New York Nationals, won a game against Chicago in the ninth inning by hitting the ball for three bases with two men out. Twenty bases on balls were given in the game between Boston and Cincinnati in Boston; Karger of Cincinnati gave twelve, McCarthy of Boston four, and Lindaman of Boston four. Bender of the Athletics pitched a 1-0 victory against the St. Louis Browns.

What the Players Did

BY THE EDITOR.

You and I, who sat at the ball games which were played last season, saw all these plays, at one time or another, which are indexed in regular order in the tables of statistics which follow.

Our enjoyment as spectators was keen from the standpoint of observation. The enjoyment of the players was fully as keen, and perhaps keener, from the standpoint of participation.

In the many long lists of standing which follow, you and I will find that Smith of such and such a team had a batting average of .300, and we will remember how we argued at the beginning of the season as to the possibility that Smith could attain such a high average in a league of the caliber of that in which he had contracted to play.

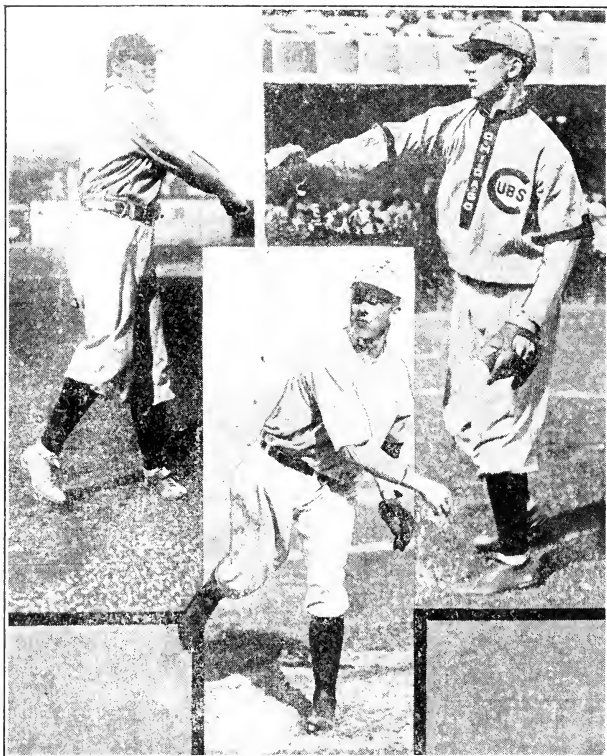

Smith will read the same average in the same publication as we do and to him it will be a record of personal pride, as well as a stated fact that he is a trifle better than an ordinary player in a certain line of achievement, and therefore in a position to command greater respect and attention from his employer.

Thus it is evident that the dry and matter-of-fact declaration, ".300," is not so stupidly dull as it would appear on first sight, because it gives the non-player a sense of satisfaction that his judgment may have been vindicated and it affords to the player a great personal satisfaction that he will be included in Base Ball history among those who were the leaders in his period of usefulness.

It is sometimes questioned whether figures may tell the relative values of men. They do not always, and more particularly so when men establish about the same quality of records during the playing season. Thus, if there be half a dozen players with a batting average of .250, it may be that one of the half dozen is better than his other five contemporaries, or that two are better than the other four, or that three, under certain conditions, would play better with certain teams than the other three.

That is a matter of managerial judgment, yet figures do not lie in attempting a classification along average lines. One type of player may be just that which is needed to fill out a certain team and exactly his antitype, with a similar percentage standing, may fill a gap in another team and establish its chances for a championship where all other men had failed for half a dozen seasons.

It is an interesting fact that not occasionally but frequently there are managers who vindicate their judgment as to the choice of players by referring to the fact that the men of their selection have done well in the averages, so that it appears that all sides find something to interest them in the accurate yearly reports

GEORGE MULLIN, CHRISTY MATHEWSON, EDWARD REULBACH,
 Detroit. New York Nationals. Chicago Nationals.

Reulbach, with fourteen consecutive victories, equalled the fine record made by Chesbro as a pitcher for the New York American League club in 1900. Close upon the heels of Reulbach was Mathewson, who won thirteen victories in succession, and after successfully surmounting the numerical obstacle which is said to be the essence of misfortune, lost his fourteenth contest. In the American League Mullin won eleven games in succession. He made such an early start on his victorious career that at one time it appeared as if he might establish a record, but the twelfth successive victory was too much for him to acquire. All three pitched splendidly throughout the greater part of the year. Mathewson's control of the ball during the season never was equaled in modern day pitching. He seldom gave a base on balls and did not hit a batter.

which are made by the RECORD as to the advancement and work of men in the Base Ball profession.

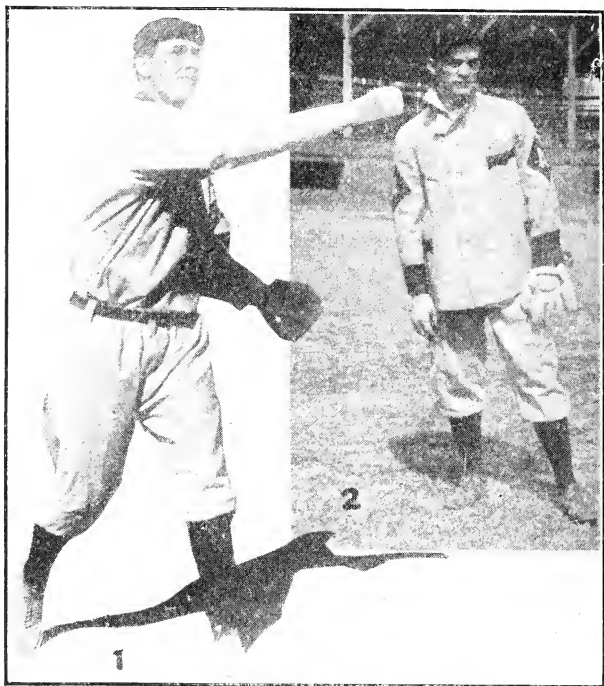

Now and then there are managers who deplore the compiling of records. It is their contention that players do not do their best when they know their faults are to be published.

But is that a fair argument? Isn't it quite true that ball players, like men of all other occupations, are likely not only to do their best but to put forth every effort to do their best if they realize that their work is to be compared with that of other players, not only in a present season, but in years to come?

Where men are engaged in competitive examination with other men to prove to the world their own abilities, I think it hardly fair to say that they will willfully decline to do their best merely because they are likely to make mistakes. That is a negative philosophy which is not confirmed by the temperament of the American nation.

In this year's volume of the RECORD the reader will find the successes of every player who engaged professionally in organized leagues last season, and every player will find recorded the results of his year's engagement.

For both there is food for amusement during the months which shall intervene between the season of 1909 and that of 1910. If there be players who have not met their own expectations, and if there be spectators who have found certain players lacking in their anticipations, the editor hopes that both players and spectators will meet a happier realization in the season to come.

ED SUMMERS,
Detroit American League Club.

NEAL BALL,
Cleveland American League Club.

Unassisted Triple Play—Neal Ball of the Cleveland club on July 19, 1909, was a star actor in this wonderfully exceptional feat as performed by a single ball player. Wagner of Boston was on second base and Stahl of Boston on first base. Both of the men started with a rush in a hit-and-run play, when McConnell rapped a line drive straight into Ball's hands. Ball ran over to second base, and touched it before Wagner could get back, and then ran toward Stahl and touched him out before he could return to first base, thereby making the triple play complete. He made the play in the second inning and in the same inning, when at bat, he made a home run. Subsequently he made a two-base hit in the game.

Summers' Fine Pitching—On July 17, 1909, Edward Summers of the Detroit club of the American League pitched one of the most remarkable games in the history of Base Ball. For eighteen innings he pitched such great ball that, with the assistance of the fielders of his team, the Washingtons were prevented from scoring. But seven hits were made against Summers and he gave only one base on balls and struck out ten men. Gray and Groom were the pitchers who opposed him. During all the long eighteen innings neither side crossed the plate. In the very next game which Summers pitched, which happened to be against the New York Americans, he shut that organization out without a run, making twenty-seven consecutive innings with not a man over the plate. That is most certainly a record of which any player may well be proud.

Games of 1909 with Few Hits

So little was the difference between specially well pitched games in the National League and in the American League for the season of 1909, as compared with the season of 1908, that what reason may be given for comment lies largely in the recognition of the similarity of the years. The work of the pitchers, judged by the success of the batters, was almost at par with the results which they had achieved in the year preceding.

Neither league boasted a pitcher who had a no-hit game to his credit. Nearest of any who came to it was Ames, who on the opening day of the year pitched nine innings again Brooklyn without a hit being made against him, and then was unfortunate enough to lose the contest in the thirteenth inning.

In 1909 there were nine one-hit games in the National League, and so there were in 1908. In 1909 there were seven one-hit games in the American League as compared with five in 1908.

Passing to the class of two-hit games, we find that there were twenty-five in the National League in 1909, a gain of three over the season preceding. In the American League there were twenty-five two-hit games, as compared with twenty-three in 1908. When further progress is made and the games of three hits are compared with the games of three hits which took place in 1908, it is found that the records are almost identical.

ANNUAL MEETING NATIONAL LEAGUE

Most important of any problem before the National League meeting in 1909 was the election of a president to succeed John A. Heydler, who had succeeded Harry Clay Pulliam to the office.

Mr. Heydler was not a candidate of himself, but was urged for the office by members of the National League who were satisfied with the record which he made in the office.

John M. Ward and Robert W. Brown of Louisville were also named as candidates for the office. The League began to ballot for president on Thursday, December 16. Prior to the first ballot being cast August Herrmann, of Cincinnati, stated that he had decided not to present the name of Mr. Heydler for the office, in view of the fact that some of the members of the League were opposed to him.

On the first ballot Mr. Brown of Louisville received the votes of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Boston clubs and Mr. Ward received those of the New York, Brooklyn, Chicago and Philadelphia clubs. This deadlock continued until Saturday, December 19, when the names of Mr. Brown and Mr. Ward were withdrawn. John T. Brush, of the New York club, nominated Thomas J. Lynch of New Britain, Conn., for the office, and he was elected unanimously.

John A. Heydler was then re-elected secretary and treasurer by a unanimous vote, the term of his office being extended to three years instead of one. The Board of Directors for 1910 were elected from the Brooklyn, Pittsburg, Chicago, Cincinnati and New York clubs.

The championship for 1909 was awarded to the Pittsburg club.

The most radical action taken by the league was a departure from the usual schedule which had been agreed upon by the members. It was decided to play 168 games in 1910 instead of 154, as had been the rule. Some of the members were opposed to it, but as there were others who thought it would be a good thing, those opposed decided that the best plan to follow was to permit the experiment to be made and convince the friends of the measure that they were wrong.

The National League adopted a resolution that between May 10 and August 20 there should be only twenty-five players allowed on the reserve rule of the club, and between August 20 and May 10, thirty-five. This was in conformity with the measure adopted by the American League, both of the major organizations having consulted on the matter with a view to cut down the number of players who had been engaged in the past.

On the first day of the league meeting the Philadelphia club, which had been reorganized, was admitted to membership under its new ownership. Horace Fogel, president of the Philadelphia club, was granted a vote.

The league decided to change its waiver rule. Hereafter when waivers are asked on a player they may be withdrawn if the owner of the club so desires. Adjournment was taken to February, when the spring meeting will be held in New York.

ANNUAL MEETING AMERICAN LEAGUE

Members of the American League met in New York for their annual meeting on December 15. At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the organization, which had been held on the previous day, the New York club had been absolved from the charge of using unfair methods by operating a scheme to read the signals of visiting catchers on their ground and communicate them to the batters.

At the formal meeting of the league the championship of 1909 was awarded to the Detroit club.

An important measure, which was adopted by the league, was in regard to the number of players to be regularly permitted on the reserve list during the year. By resolution it was agreed that the players who were to be carried between May 1 and August 20 should be limited to twenty-five and those between August 20 and May 1 should be limited to thirty-five. This measure is in the nature of giving relief to the minor leagues which complain of a dearth of players.

It was unanimously voted that the schedule of 1910 should be limited to 154 games, as has been the case in other years.

A resolution was passed by the organization expressing confidence in the loyalty of Joseph Cantillon to the American League.

The question of spikes to be used by players was left to a committee composed of Charles Comiskey and Ban Johnson. The Chicago, Cleveland, New York and Boston clubs were included in the list of directors. Charles W. Somers of Cleveland was unanimously re-elected vice-president.

As the agreement between the American League clubs expires in another year, Thomas F. Noyes of Washington, Frank J. Navin of Detroit and President Johnson were appointed a committee to draw up an agreement for twenty years to come. The same committee also was delegated to act on the revision of the constitution.

Messrs. Noyes, Comiskey and Somers were appointed a committee on rules for the succeeding year.

The most important deal in players was that by which Elberfeld of New York was transferred to Washington for the sum of $5,000.

ANNUAL MEETING NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

Members of the National Association of Professional Base Ball Clubs met in Memphis, Tenn., during the week of November 8, 1909, for their annual meeting. Most important of the legislation put into effect was the adoption of a resolution by which the organization is perfected another ten years or until 1921. This ensures the best system of government during that period which has yet been devised for minor leagues.

M. H. Sexton, of Rock Island, Ill., was unanimously re-elected president. The place of meeting for 1910 was designated as Chicago. Some minor changes were made in the constitution, which were for the general good of the organization. A suggestion that a flat draft price be made obligatory on all leagues was referred to the proper committee for consideration.

It was agreed to follow the course of the major leagues in punishing contract breakers by suspending them for five years, while players who break their reserve will be suspended for three years.

The report of the Board of Arbitration, which had been favorable to the admission of the California State League, was agreed to by the members of the National Association, and thus the last of the outlaw Base Ball organizations in the United States was taken under the protection of the National Agreement.

Players who are at present with the California State League and who had jumped their contracts were allotted to that organization for a term of four years. Those who had jumped their reservation to go with the California State League were allotted to the organization for two years.

Western League

The Western League season of 1909, the tenth year of the organization, furnished surprise at the very last moment of the race when Des Moines slipped into first position, beating out Sioux City by the narrow margin of two points. They were enabled to do this by Omaha defeating Sioux City in both games of a double header on the last day, while at the same time Des Moines defeated Lincoln. Omaha figured well in the race during the entire season and finished a good third. Topeka and Wichita, new members in 1909, came next in the order named, with Denver, Lincoln and Pueblo following.

American Association

The eighth annual contest of the American Association had a remarkably long schedule—168 games being listed. The struggle for the pennant was a prolonged one, Milwaukee holding resolutely to first place all season, outside of a few short reverses, with Minneapolis as the runner-up, and these two teams in the last month of the season were conceded to have the best chance of finishing in the order named. Louisville, however, which had been trailing in third place, suddenly made a spurt at the very end, and, taking advantage of slight setbacks for the two leaders, slipped into first place two days before the finish, resisting all efforts to dislodge them, thus bringing the Association championship to the Falls City for the first time.

Dan McGann, the old first baseman of the Giants when they won the championship of the National League, led the Association in fielding at first.

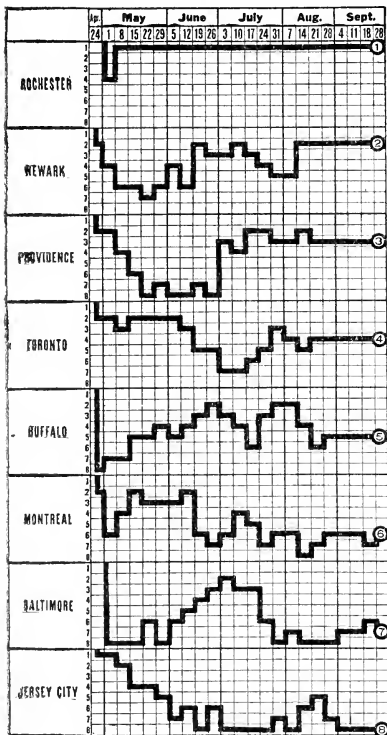

On August 16 at Milwaukee the Columbus and Milwaukee clubs played for 14 innings and the score was nothing to nothing when the game was called on account of darkness.

James of Columbus led the Association in home runs. He made seven. James is the catcher whom McGraw let go to Columbus after he had been tried by New York in spring practice.

Olmstead of Minneapolis, who goes to the Chicago American League club, was the leading pitcher of the Association in reality, although Karger, with fewer games, had a higher percentage.

On July 3, when Swayne Park, the new Base Ball ground, was dedicated at Toledo, the longest game in the history of the Association was played. The game was 18 innings in length and was won by Columbus by the score of 12 to 11. Heavy batting and sensational fielding marked the contest from beginning to finish. The only runs which each team scored were made in four innings by each. Toledo made 3, 5, 2 and 1. Columbus scored 4, 5, 2 and 1. Toledo scored a home run and both teams between them made six three-baggers. Owen and McSurdy pitched for Toledo and Geyer, Milligan and Goodwin for Columbus.

Eastern League

The Eastern League, the oldest minor organization, finished a most successful season with Rochester, which had been tailender in 1908, as the champion. Under Manager Ganzel's direction the team kept up its consistent work throughout the season, and for a time it looked as if they would make a runaway race of it, but in July, Newark and Providence, which had been in the lower notches, began to ascend, until at the close of the season, Rochester was fighting desperately to ward off Newark, and only through a run of phenomenal luck in a string of consecutive victories was the team enabled to clinch the honor.

On September 9 one of the longest and most exciting games of the year was played when the Newark and Jersey Citys went 13 innings without either team scoring. The game was called on account of darkness.

On September 23 two peculiar double-headers were played in the league. Buffalo defeated Jersey City, 1—0, in the first game and in the second, both teams tied in ten innings with the score 1 to 1. Montreal played two games against Newark and won both by the score of 2 to 0.

May 13 was the big batting day for Mueller of the Jersey City club. He was playing against Toronto, at Toronto, and made three home runs, a single and a double. He got around the bases four times. McGinley, Hickey and Connolly were pitching against him.

Jersey City did not win the championship but every now and then played a sensational game of ball. On August 19 the Jersey City nine shut out Providence by the score of 1 to 0. That was not all, for it was the third 1 to 0 victory in succession for the Jersey City players. The victims before Providence were Baltimore, which lost two games in succession by the same score.

Southern Association

The Atlanta Club won its second pennant in this driving Class A organization with quite a margin to spare. The race up to the last few weeks was very interesting. The Nashville team was the main contender, although New Orleans was in evidence most of the time. The work of the clubs as a whole was first-class and a number of players were developed. Financially the Association was not as successful as in 1908. Daubert of Memphis led the Association in batting. Johns and Fisher of the champions Atlanta head the pitchers in percentage of games won. President Kavanaugh was re-elected for 1910. Franchises were extended for a period of ten years.

Connecticut League

Hartford, which won the pennant for the first time since being a member of the league, practically held first position throughout the season, Holyoke making a few ineffective attempts to dislodge the leader. New Britain and Waterbury had a close contest for third place, as did Springfield and New Haven for fifth. Northampton held pretty consistently to seventh position, while Bridgeport for the last three months continued in the last ditch. The season was a success and a fine article of ball was shown.

Central League

Wheeling, which won its second pennant in the seventh season of the Central League last season, consistently held premier position except for a few short intervals; in fact, the team was always either in first or second place soon after the start. Zanesville showed form also, maintaining second position nearly all season, varied by incursions to the front rank at intervals. After the first of August, however, the teams settled into their grooves and finished the season continuously in their respective positions.

New England League

Jesse Burkett's Worcester team again won the New England pennant for the fourth time in succession, tying Fall River's 1893-96 record. During the season, and up almost to the end, Worcester did not look to be a contender, but Burkett's fine generalship and long experience was not to be denied and they again landed the trophy.

Indiana-Illinois-Iowa League

The ninth annual championship race of the "Three Eye" League came to a close on September 26 with the Rock Island team, which had been piloted by the veteran Jack Tighe, in the van. There never was a time in the whole contest when the team was lower than second, and for three months, with the exception of a short interval, was first. The same description, changing the positions from second to third respectively in the account, might apply to Springfield and Davenport, which finished in that order. Bloomington, Peoria and Decatur fluctuated in the lower positions, while Cedar Rapids was hopelessly last. The honor, however, of what is probably the longest contest ever played in organized ball is credited to this league, when on May 31 Decatur and Bloomington played 26 innings, the former winning.

REMARKABLE PERFORMANCES DURING SEASON OF 1909.

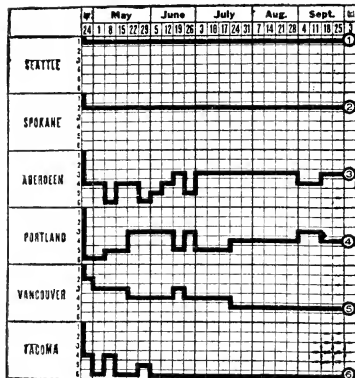

On May 31 Decatur and Bloomington played a 26-inning game, the longest contest on record in Three-Eye League history and probably in Organized Base Ball. The score was 2 to 1 in favor of Decatur. Bloomington scored one run in the first inning, after which the Bloomers played 25 innings without scoring. Decatur scored in the third, tying the score, and shortstop Purtell drove in the winning run in the twenty-sixth inning with a triple. Clark and Burns, pitchers respectively for Bloomington and Decatur, lasted the 26 innings out and Burns made a remarkable record in holding his opponents without a run for a quarter of a hundred innings. He gave but 13 hits during the game, Clark giving but 11. In point of time the game was also a long one, perhaps the longest on record, requiring four hours and twenty minutes to play, the first twelve innings being in drizzle and intermittent rain. Burns gave but one base on balls during the 26 innings.

On May 29 Dubuque defeated Cedar Rapids in a 19-inning game.

Three no-hit-no-run games were pitched during the season, as follows: May 10—Gilbert (Peoria) vs. Dubuque; June 6—Steiger (Springfield) vs. Davenport; June 29—Daly (Springfield) vs. Rock Island. Other no-hit games were as follows: May 16—Yount (Dubuque) vs. Decatur; Jaeger (Cedar Rapids) vs. Davenport. Total of five no-hit games.

One-hit games: May 27—Neal (Rock Island) vs. Dubuque; May 8—Neal (Rock Island) vs. Cedar Rapids; June 7—Hardin (Rock Island) vs. Decatur; June 12—Hovlik (Peoria) vs. Cedar Rapids; June 12—Patrick (Springfield) vs. Rock Island (7 innings); June 23—Ray (Dubuque) vs. Springfield; July 8—Neal (Rock Island) vs. Cedar Rapids; July 11—Davidson (Bloomington) vs. Cedar Rapids (7 innings); July 27—Gilbert (Peoria) vs. Davenport; August 6—Parkins (Davenport) vs. Rock Island; August 21—Ray (Dubuque) vs. Decatur; August 22—Steen (Bloomington) vs. Davenport.

Northwestern League

The season in the Northwestern League was a success financially, but as a sporting event was not very exciting, as both the first and second teams to finish retained their relative positions from start to finish. Aberdeen played consistent ball and finished third. Portland, with its new team, did excellently and got fourth; Vancouver couldn't repeat; and Tacoma, also, had a drop from second in 1908, to last in 1909.

Friday, August 20, will always be a memorable day in Northwestern League history, as being the date on which two remarkable contests were waged. At Portland, the home team and Aberdeen went 18 innings before a result was reached, 3—1, in favor of the visitors, and on the same day at Seattle the latter and Vancouver played a 3—1 game also, the Canadian team winning in the eighteenth inning.

The season in the Pacific Northwest League was prolific of extra-inning contests. On June 10 Vancouver defeated Seattle, 5—4, in 15th innings and on July 19 Spokane defeated Portland, 2—1, in 17 innings. The record game of the league, however, was the battle between Vancouver and Portland on July 31, at the former place, which went for 21 innings without a run being scored, the visitors finally making three in the twenty-second, winning the game. Gilligan pitched for Vancouver and Pinnance for Portland.

Tri-State League

Lancaster won the pennant in this very successful league. Credit is extended to Manager Marty Hogan for bringing about the result. As in a number of other leagues in 1909, the winner held pretty consistently to the initial position, with the second and third teams striving to hold their own in their respective positions. The disparity in percentage between the leader and the tailender was too marked to be classed as a good contest. York, the champion of the league in two previous contests in the league's history, being hopelessly lost right from the start, with the exception of one interval of a few days, when Harrisburg obligingly substituted.

On July 24, at Trenton, Steele of the Altoona club pitched a double-header and won both games.

Sacrifice batting was unusually heavy in the league showing that there was abundance of play for runs.

Barthold of Reading administered a no-hit-no-run defeat to Altoona on July 21 at Reading.

S. Coveleskie, pitching for Lancaster, on August 3 shut out York, 7-0, and also won the second game, a seven-inning contest.

VanDyke of Harrisburg, also performed the double-header pitching feat of winning both games when he defeated Trenton on August 11.

York and Altoona battled for fourteen innings on July 9 at Altoona, Vance and Oakley being in the points, the Altoona team finally winning, 3-2.

Williamsport and Altoona went to 15 innings on August 30 at the former town, the home team finally winning, 5-6. Stroud pitched for Williamsport and Teal for Altoona.

Gray of Johnstown led the league in two-base hits and will have a chance to show his skill as a batter in the American League in 1910. He had eleven three-baggers and six home runs to his credit.

Marshall of Lancaster was the leader in base-stealing, the nearest player to him being Wotell of Altoona with 61, who was followed by Rath of Reading with 63, Ayres of Altoona with 48 and Deal of Lancaster with 47.

"Pop" Foster, who, was once a Giant, made a good record with Reading. His fielding average was .987 as an outfielder and his batting average was .313. The figures are a little higher than he was accustomed to make in a major league.

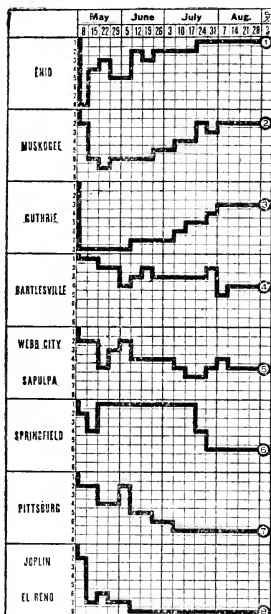

Lancaster and Johnstown played one of the fastest games of the season on August 18 at Lancaster, Johnstown winning in one hour and twenty-eight minutes. S. Coveleskie pitched for Lancaster and Scott for Johnstown. The score was 2-1.

In Lelivelt's forty-one games with Reading he batted for 345, and when he was secured by an American League club he continued his good work with the stick in not quite the same ratio but in a manner which was satisfactory to Washington.

Luxtis, the old University of Pennsylvania player, was given a chance both behind the bat and at first base. In both positions he did fairly well but the Cincinnati club which secured his services has decided that another year in the minors will be of advantage to him before he is tried in the National.

Seventeen players attained the "300" point in batting last season. Lister of Williamsport reaching the remarkable percentage of .350. His batting was very productive of extra-base hits, 26 being two-baggers and 19 three-baggers; only 2 home runs were made by him, however. As a sacrifice hitter he had 25 to his credit.

Western Association

The eighth season of the Western Association, President Shively's lively organization, formerly known as the Missouri Valley League, found an Oklahoma team as a champion for the first time, Enid having attained that honor by good, earnest work. The season's race was well contested, five of the teams reaching over .500 in percentage of games won, a good criterion of a pennant contest. All of the teams except El Reno were pretty evenly balanced, and could have been figured at some time as possible contenders for the trophy, and only in the home-stretch did Enid begin to draw away.

Allen of Enid caught 108 games, which is a fine record for a player in a minor league. As a rule the catchers are worked alternately and Allen must have been so good that the manager wished to use him as often as possible.

Patterson of Guthrie easily outstripped all other batters of the Association. In 120 games he ran up an average of .355. This included 26 two-base hits, twelve three-baggers and five home runs. That is a total of which no batter need feel ashamed.

Metz, the Muskogee first baseman, with 1,092 put-outs to his credit and the fact that he played in 115 games, really led in the position from the standpoint of work. As a batter he hit up to .275 which is not bad in these days. Work of that kind is what catches the attention of the scouts when they are making their rounds of the minor leagues.

Bowman, second baseman of the Enid team, had a curious record in one way. He made 299 put-outs, more than any other second baseman of the organization. On top of that he made 298 assists more than any other second baseman. In both instances he stopped just short of 300, once by one and the second time by two. In total chances there was no other player in the association who could touch him.

Loften of Sapulpa led the Association in stolen bases with 51 to his credit. His batting was good enough to place him above the .300 mark and his record as a run getter for the year was higher than that of any other player, as he scored 108 times. He is an outfielder, and while he did not lead the organization in fielding, the number of chances which he accepted shows that he is something of a ground coverer.

Ohio and Pennsylvania League

The "O. & P." League, thanks to the able administration of President Samuel L. Wright, had quite a successful season. All the clubs profited by the experiences in the past and were successful in a marked degree over the season of 1908. President Wright was re-elected for 1910. The president's report showed the league to be in excellent condition, many players were sold and drafted. Akron again won, and except for a period of only two weeks was never out of the premier position. East Liverpool was just as consistent in its devotion to second place, while McKeesport selected third place for itself. In home-and-home series Akron defeated six of the other teams, East Liverpool being the only club to get the best of the champions. Erie was the easiest, being able to only get one game to Akron's fourteen. The other teams had varying luck in holding the inferior positions, but the commanding lead of the first division made it a hopeless task for the weaker teams, the season ending with a variation of nearly three hundred points between the leader and the tailender. Shotten of Steubenville, in 112 games has a batting average of .347. Ten players batted .300 and better. Osborne of East Liverpool heads the pitchers in games won and lost.

Virginia League

Roanoke won its first pennant by nosing out Norfolk in a very exciting race. Richmond led for half the season, but in July Roanoke assumed the lead and maintained it, with the exception of a couple of weeks near the close of the season, to the end. The champion club in team batting and fielding was second in standing. Fox of Norfolk leads the pitchers and Seitz of the same club holds the lead in batting. President Jake Wells reports a successful season and fine prospects for 1910. The champions were known as the "Shaughnessy College Tigers," being handled by two collegians—President Williams and Manager Shaughnessy.

Texas League

The successful contestant for championship honors was Houston, which team held the top of the column for nearly the entire season, relinquishing it only for a few weeks to San Antonio. The latter team was unable to stick, however, and the Houston team regained the coveted honor, while in the meantime Oklahoma City slipped into second place early in August and maintained its advantage to the end, San Antonio and Dallas having a battle for third, which was only decided by a few points at the very end of the season. Downey led the league in batting, Oklahoma City leads in team batting, while Shreveport won the team fielding honors. Drucke of Dallas and Chellette of Oklahoma City lead the pitchers in percentage of games won and lost, but the honor rightly belongs to Drucke, he having pitched double the number of games more than Chellette. W. White of Oklahoma City played in 150 games. The majority of clubs report a successful season. President Wilbur P. Allen conducted the affairs of the league in an able manner and was re-elected for the coming year.

Oklahoma City defeated Fort Worth, 2-1, in fourteen innings on July 23.

On June 2 Houston defeated Shreveport, 2-1, in fourteen innings, in the first game of a double-header.

Only four players reached the "300" goal last season, but Downey, who led the league, attained .346.

On June 26 Mitchell of the San Antonio team shut out Shreveport, 1-0, without a safe hit. Mitchell is a left-hander.

Pitcher Harmon of Shreveport on May 10 shut out Galveston without a safe hit. Only one man reached first base, and he on an error.

The last team in the race had the best base stealer, Thebo having 63. Newnam of the champions had 62, Mowry of Houston 59, and Fillman of Fort Worth 57.

On May 11 Peters, the Dallas pitcher, shut out Oklahoma City with but four hits, and they, curiously, were made by one man, outfielder McCormick, in as many times at bat.

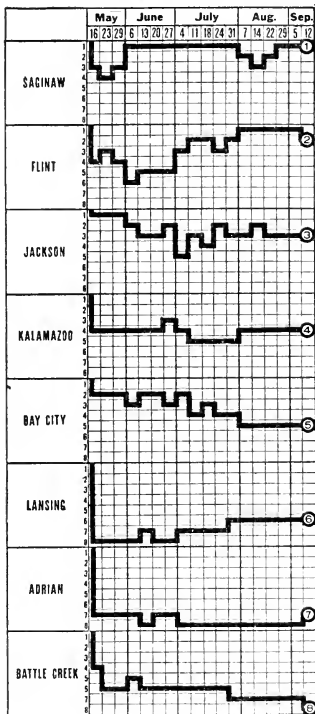

Four players had 10 or more home runs to their account last season. Hoffman and Riley of Galveston had 18 and 15 respectively, while Corkill of Galveston and Houston and Bastian of San Antonio had 10 each.

McCormick of Oklahoma City, who was third in batting, had the greatest number of runs scored, 93, but stole only 19 bases. Fillman of Fort Worth was second in number of runs scored, but stood high in the list of base stealers.

At Fort Worth on May 28 Overton of Dallas made a home run on a strike-out. He missed the third strike and the ball hit the plate and bounded on top of the grand stand, lodging in a gutter, while the runner made the circuit of the bases.

Southern Michigan League

This tight little league ended its fourth season with one of the strongest finishes any organization could possibly desire. Saginaw, Flint and Jackson fought up to the very last days, and were only separated by a game at the very end, the two latter teams having a most desperate struggle for second place, tying 1-1 in an eleven inning contest on the next to last day of the season and continuing the battle on the final day, Jackson defeating Flint 1-0, and then playing an 0-0 game as the second instalment of a double header; but Flint held her own, and the Jacksonians had to be content with their position. Kalamazoo finished above the .500 point, with Bay City and Lansing following. Adrian and Battle Creek had a contest of their own to keep out of last place, the former finally managing to hold on until the season closed by an extremely narrow margin.

Martin of Kalamazoo was a big help to his team. Besides batting .330 his record shows 51 runs, 39 stolen bases and 44 sacrifice hits.

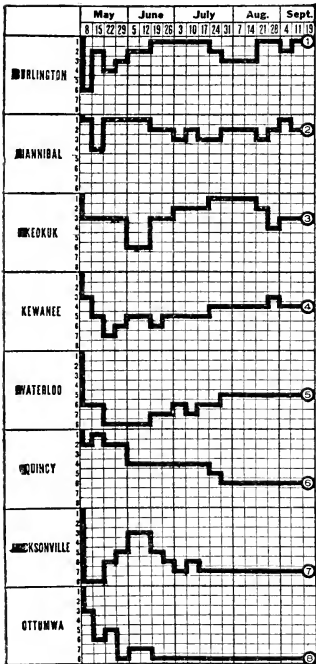

Ball of Adrian led in stolen bases, with 55, being fifth in the batting list and passing the .300 mark. He also scored the greatest number of runs, 94.

Criger of Jackson and Kusel of Saginaw led the pitchers, each winning 22 games and losing 7. Cole of Bay City and Krapp of Flint pitched in the greatest number of games, 38, and both won more than they lost.

August was a month of long extra-inning contests in the Southern Michigan League. On the 1st Jackson took fourteen innings to beat Bay City, 2—1; Criger pitched for the winner and Cole and Walsh for Bay City; Criger won his own game with a hit in the fourteenth inning. On the 5th Jackson figured again with Kalamazoo in a 4—4 twelve-inning game. On the 9th Lansing and Flint went thirteen innings to a 2—2 score. On the 19th Bay City took twelve innings to beat Adrian, and on the 22d, three days later, Bay City and Lansing used up thirteen innings in a fruitless endeavor to win, the score resulting in a tie, 1—1. Previously, in July, Bay City sustained two defeats in long games, once by Lansing, 4—1, in twelve innings, and once by Flint, 1—0, in thirteen innings.

Central Association

(Formerly Iowa State.)

The sixth season in this well conducted association ended with Burlington as the champion. It was a spirited race from start to finish. Burlington, Hannibal and Keokuk having a grand finish, Burlington finally winning in the last days of the race. As a reference to the diagram shows, the contest for first honors was confined to those three clubs, Waterloo, the two-time winner of the two previous years, was fifth, never even attaining the first division after the start. Burlington won its series from only three of the teams, being beaten by Hannibal and tied in games won by Keokuk and Waterloo. Jacksonville was unable to do anything at all against the champions, losing all of the seventeen games played. Hannibal held the lead for a month early in the season, but had to relinquish the honor to Burlington for a period of five weeks, when Keokuk settled in the position for a month, after which the struggle was a nip-and-tuck one to the end. The season was a successful one, from a financial as well as from an artistic point of view, all clubs finishing in good condition.

Ohio State League

The second season of the Ohio State League began with six clubs—Lima, Marion, Mansfield, Portsmouth, Lancaster and Newark. The contest was interesting, but owing to non-attendance several of the clubs had a hard time to make expenses, the first club to go being Newark, which gave up in August, the team's dates being transferred to Columbus, Ohio, until a new town could be secured to take up the franchise. Lancaster next went to the wall and the league therefore dropped Newark and finished the season with a new schedule of four clubs.

Illinois-Missouri League

The record season of this thriving league ended with Monmouth leading in the race for the championship. The race between Monmouth and Beardstown was close, while the other teams had varying success in their pennant efforts. Lotshaw of Beardstown and Forsythe of Pekin although actually third and fourth respectively on the batting list, played in nearly every game, and excelled as heavy hitters, the former having five home runs and fourteen three-baggers, while Forsythe had seven of each. Both players also lead in base stealing. The league has granted permission to Monmouth and Galesburg to withdraw for the purpose of joining other leagues in 1909.

Johnson of Canton had 265 assists to his credit, indicating his ability to shoot the ball over to first ahead of the runners.

Seven men in the league batted above .300. The number was less than usual, for the organization has turned out some good batters in the past.

Connor of Macomb played the most games of any first baseman and batted for .249. He had 1,332 put-outs in his position and 56 assists. Only one other first baseman had more assists.

Base running in the league was fairly good all the year and Johnson of the Canton club, with 45 steals to his credit, was the leader. There were a number who stole more than thirty bases.

Hart of the Monmouth club was the only catcher who was behind the bat in more than 100 games. Hannah of Beardstown caught 94 and was second among the catchers in actual work on the field.

There was but one batter in all the league who hit the ball for just .250. He was Davie of the Galesburg club. As a rule there are about half a dozen batters who can strike the .250 mark exactly.

Lotshaw, also of Beardstown, is another outfielder who is said to be coveted by the big leagues. His batting average was .329 and he played both the outfield and first base, doing well in both positions.

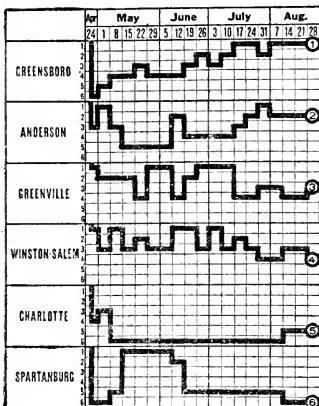

Stewart, the Beardstown third baseman, was another infielder with a record for chances. He had 200 put-outs and 261 assists and was the only third baseman in the league who exceeded the 450 total in those respects.

Moore of Macomb struck out more times than any other batter, but he was by no means the lowest in the league in batting percentage showing that when he did hit the ball it traveled. He was third baseman for his team.

Hardgrove of Monmouth, the leading pitcher of the league, won exactly two-thirds of the contests in which he took part. In forty-one games he made but 5 wild pitches and gave 42 bases on balls, showing that he had fairly good command of the sphere.

Kommers of Beardstown, who will be given a trial by the New York National League club in 1910, was sixth among the batters of the league. His average was .319 and he made 20 two-baggers, 11 three-base hits and 2 home runs in conjunction with his 139 safe hits. He played in the outfield and did not shine so brightly there as he did with the bat.

Carolina Association

Greensboro repeated, winning the second championship in this well balanced and well conducted league. President Wearn has been re-elected, against his wishes, for 1910. Many young players were developed during the season. Lave Cross of Charlotte virtually leads the league in batting, being well above the much desired "300," although his team was hopelessly out of the race.

The following no-hit games are credited, viz.:

May 7, 1909—Walters against Anderson Club.

May 13, 1909—McCarthy against Greenville Club.

June 9, 1909—Touchstone against Charlotte Club.

July 7, 1909—Abercrombie against Anderson Club.

August 10, 1909—Bauswine against Greenville Club.

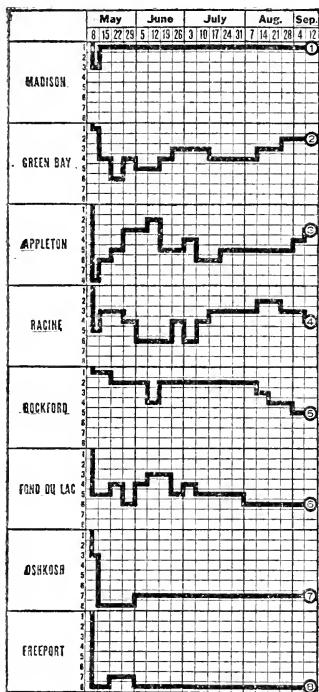

August 19, 1909—Hayes against Winston Club.

Pitcher Walters of Greensboro on May 7 disposed of Anderson without a safe hit, but the latter scored a run in the ninth inning on a four-base wild throw by the pitcher.

At Greenville on August 4, Greenville defeated Greensboro in a 16-inning contest by 1 to 0, the only score being a home run by Touchstone, Greenville's pitcher, who thus won his own game. Hammersley was Greensboro's twirler.

June 15 and 16 were remarkable for the fact that all the losing teams did not score a single run. On the former date Winston-Salem defeated Charlotte twice by identical scores, 1—0, and Greenville defeated Spartanburg 3—0 and 2—0. On June 16 Greenville defeated Spartanburg 1—0, Greensboro defeated Anderson 6—0, and Charlotte revenged herself for the previous day by winning 10—0 against Winston-Salem.

Wisconsin-Illinois League

Madison was the winner of the pennant, having a comparatively easy time of it, virtually heading the procession the entire season. Rockford held second place almost continuously from the start until early in August, when there was a slump, which did not stop until fifth place was reached, much to the disappointment of the followers of that team, who had confidently expected at least to be second. Green Bay and Racine had various luck in their fight for third position, finally ending in Green Bay getting second, Appleton, which had been fifth a great part of the season, making an eleventh hour spurt and getting third, while Racine had to be content with fourth. The season was a financial success, thanks to good attendance and the excellent management of President Moll.

Kansas State League

The first season in this league ended in a finish that could be called nothing short of sensational. The championship title was in doubt until the last day of the race, after a three weeks' contest for the title by Lyons and Hutchinson, the latter team losing the chance by being beaten by Great Bend at the last moment. McPherson is also entitled to being classed with the first three, as that club held the lead almost continuously up to the last weeks and finished only two games behind the winner. Altogether the first year of the Kansas State League can be pronounced a big success.

Blue Grass League

Winchester won the Blue Grass League pennant by a margin of only five points after a most exciting finish with Richmond. The race was between these teams from the start, Richmond holding 1st place for the greater portion of the season. Frankfort, the 1908 champion, held to third place pretty consistently, only to be supplanted near the close by Paris. A very high class of ball was played and the outlook for the coming season is very promising.

Batters who reached "300" were scarce in the organization. Frankfort had one and Richmond had two, and those were all there were.

On July 19 Shelbyville defeated Lexington 1—0 in a fourteen-inning contest, and on July 23 defeated Paris, 4—3, in a twelve-inning game.

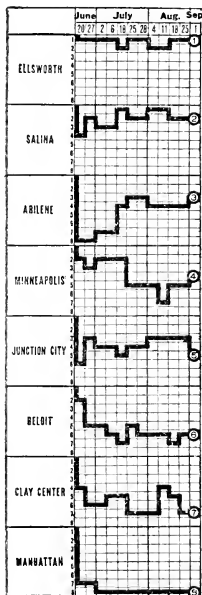

Chapman, who pitched for Winchester, won 17 games and lost 5, and that helped not a little in securing the championship for the Winchester organization.

Murphy of the Lexington club and Weisenstein of Shelbyville were the only players to get through the season with a clean fielding record. Their averages of 1.000 top all of the list.

Winchester, the championship team of the league, did not lead the organization in batting, but it did in fielding, and Base Ball men are puzzled to know if this is an instance where good fielders have been able to get the better of good batters.

Lexington and Winchester played a seventeen-inning game on May 10, the latter team winning, 1—0. Tony, the Winchester pitcher, not allowing a safe hit. Baker pitched for the visitors. The same teams played a fifteen-inning tie on July 25, not a run being scored by either side. Chapman pitched for Lexington and Klon for Winchester.

Central Kansas League

The Central Kansas League closed its first season with a warmly contested race between Ellsworth and Salina for championship honors, the former team finally winning. Five of the teams won more games than they lost, while Beloit and Clay Center almost touched the .500 mark, Manhattan being really the only disappointment.

Eastern Carolina League

The second contest of the Eastern Carolina League was marked by as desperate a struggle as might be expected from a major body, and does credit to the excellent teams representing the cities of the circuit. The race was close right up to the end, Wilson and Wilmington winning the same number of games, but the latter lost one more, and had to be content with second position instead of being a two-time winner.

New York State League

Wilkes-Barre, a Pennsylvania team, was the winner of the New York State League pennant, followed closely by Utica, Albany and Elmira comprising the other teams in the first division. The winner's position was achieved by hard and steady work, and it was only at the close that the team had undisputed occupation of the first place in the race, Utica and Albany alternating in that niche the greater part of the year. Elmira, the tailender of 1908, played well and finished a good fourth. Scranton, the 1908 champion, owing to excessive drafts of her best players, finished at the end, while Binghamton, Troy and Syracuse, which occupied the three remaining places in the first division of 1908, finished in the same relative order, only in the second division, in 1909,

Thompson, the Syracuse pitcher, on June 15, shut Binghamton out with but one hit and struck out fourteen men.

At Scranton, on June 12, in the first game of a double-header between Utica and Scranton, with the score 3—3, at the end of the fourteenth inning, Utica came to bat in the fifteenth and knocked out four runs. Scranton responded gamely with three runs in their half, but lost, 7—6.

In a game at Syracuse, July 4, between the Albany and Syracuse teams, which lasted seventeen innings, the Albany team finally won out, loose base running costing the locals the game. Thompson of Syracuse gave Albany but eight hits, while Knight of Albany gave his opponents twelve hits, and still won his game.

One of the hardest-fought games in the New York State League was played at Utica, June 27, between the Troy and Utica teams, the result being decided in the eighteenth inning, when Bastion of Utica singled, stole second, and on Madden's bunt, which Swormstead, the Troy pitcher, threw wildly, scored the winning run for the home team. In the fifteenth inning Troy had the bases filled, with none out, but failed to score. Swormstead of Troy struck out eighteen men and gave but one base on balls, allowing only eight hits. O'Connor of Utica pitched sixteen innings, allowing ten hits, and Reardon, who finished the game, allowed but one hit. The score was 3—2.

SPALDING'S OFFICIAL BASE BALL RECORD.

PART II.

RECORDS OF PREVIOUS YEARS

CONTAINING A COMPLETE TABULATED REVIEW OF
THE FORMATION OF ORGANIZED BASE BALL
FROM THE TIME OF THE INCEPTION OF
THE FIRST LEAGUE, AS WELL AS STATISTICS OF THE PAST WHICH ARE INVALUABLE TO ENTHU-
SIASTS AND ADMIRERS OF THE NATIONAL PASTIME.

Attention is called to the thorough and careful condensation which has been made of base ball history in order that the Record shall be able to present to its readers in the smallest space the greatest amount of information. In the pages which follow, facts are accurately stated which would require reference to more than thirty volumes if they were to be ascertained without the assistance of Spalding's Official Base Ball Record.

GRAND NATIONAL ALL-AMERICA BASE BALL TEAM

Players on National Championship Teams who have played in one position in 50 games (pitchers 25 games) or over and whose combined records of Fielding and Batting (pitchers' record includes Percentage of Victories, Fielding and Batting) rank the highest in each position covering the period of thirty-nine years from the commencement of Professional Base Ball, in 1871, to 1909, inclusive.

[NOTE.—The All-America Teams are made up of players in Champion Teams and not necessarily on best records.]

Total Average.....	.....	....	.899	.940	.377	1.416

*Wm Keeler played center field on the Brooklyn team of 1899, and in this position had a record in fielding of .970 and in batting of .376, a total of 1.346, which would entitle him to the center field position on the Grand National "All-America" Team, but as he had a higher record as right fielder of the Baltimore team in 1896, the center field was given to Hugh Duffy of Boston with the next highest record of 1.336. A clerical error was made in the Record Book of 1908, in placing Hugh Jennings' name in the shortstop position on the Grand National "All-America" Team, with his splendid record of .943 in fielding and .386 in batting, totaling 1.329, instead of Geo Wright, with his still more remarkable record of .940 in fielding and .422 in batting, totaling 1.362.

Base Ball Equipment for 1910

Fourteen different grades of base balls comprise the Spalding line for 1910, the Spalding "Official National League" Ball being the leader, of course, as it has been all over the world for over thirty years. For boys' use the Spalding "Official National League" Jr. takes the place of the regulation size ball, being made of identically the same materials and in the same manner, only slightly smaller in size. For junior clubs (composed of boys under 16 years of age) games played with it are recognized as official, just as if played with the Spalding "Official National League" Ball itself.

The idea adopted by Spalding several years ago of supplying bats that are duplicates of those used by leading batters in the big leagues has met with much favor. This series is known as the "Gold Medal Autograph" line, each individual bat being stamped with the player's fac-simile signature. The list of players whose models have been duplicated has been selected with a view of embracing every variety of a bat that might be called for and ranges from the long, heavy bat of Frank Chance to the other extreme of Billy Keeler's. The players whose models comprise the Gold Medal Autograph line are: Frank Chance, Fred Clarke, Sam Crawford, Harry Davis, Roger Bresnahan, Johnny Evers, Miller Huggins and Billy Keeler; and, on special order, the Donlin, Stone and Oakes models are also supplied. The balance of the Spalding bat line is as large as in previous years, with the addition of two new models for this season, the "Dreadnought," in assorted lengths but of the greatest thickness allowed by the rules,  $2\frac{3}{4}$  inches, and which is especially useful for preliminary swings before going to bat, and the "Fungo," which, as the name implies, has its special use, being made of willow and light weight.

The list of Mitts and Gloves for the use of catchers, infielders and outfielders is almost limitless in quantity and suitable to every requirement, both in quality and price. An improvement in Spalding Infielders' Gloves this year is the patented "diverted seam," a method of sewing which carries the seam up a short distance on the finger of the glove, instead of being exactly between them, as in the ordinary glove, thus adding to their durability.

Base Ball Uniforms, as every player knows, are subject to roughest usage, and yet must be light in weight; they cannot be made from ordinary cloth and stand the wear to which they are subjected. The cloth in Spalding uniforms is made to order especially for that purpose and then tailored by men who know just how the work should be done. The suits worn by the World's Champions, the Pittsburgh team, and the American League Champions, the Detroit club, are made by Spalding's, as are the uniforms used by nearly all the leading professional, college and amateur teams of the country.

Another very important item of a player's equipment is his shoes. Unless the shoes are right, and fit perfectly, the player is seriously handicapped. Spalding shoes are made in a Spalding factory by Spalding workmen, who make the shoes of the fastest men in the game. These players cannot afford to lessen their chances of success by wearing inferior goods and that is why they wear the Spalding kind. Naturally the very latest suggestions and ideas are at the command of the Spalding factory.

Every player, whether he needs anything now or not, should send for a copy of the new Spalding 1910 catalogue. It is a handsome specimen of the printer's art, and contains pictures, prices, and descriptions of everything that is needed in athletic sport, whether base ball, tennis, golf, track and field athletics or other spring and summer pastimes. Send your name and address on a postal to the nearest Spalding store (see list on inside front cover) and receive a copy by return mail.

In addition to the above list, the Spalding "Official National League" Ball has been adopted for one or more years by over one hundred other Professional and Amateur Leagues. The Spalding League Ball is in universal use by all the leading college and school teams throughout the United States.

When to the above is added every foreign league on the face of the earth where Base Ball is played, including Canada, Mexico, England, Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Japan, Australia, India, the South American Republics and South Africa, some idea may be conveyed of the universal recognition accorded to the Spalding "Official National League" Ball.

The Spalding "Official National League" Ball

Is in a class by itself. It has no rival, even in approximate excellence. It has attained a degree of perfection in manufacture where the genius of man seems unable to conceive of any design for its improvement. The Spalding Ball has reached this high stage of development from very modest beginnings. Time was when American boys had to be satisfied with a base ball composed of a slice from a rubber shoe, some yarn from their dad's woolen sock and a cover made of leather bought from the village cobbler and deftly wrapped and sewed on by their patient mother, after her day's work was done. But that time is no more; for, whatever may be true of the doughnuts and pies that "mother used to make,"—and we all remember how good they were—the home-made creations of our maternal ancestry in the base ball line had to give way when the house of A. G. Spalding & Bros. entered that field, and long ago the Spalding "Official National League" Ball distanced all competition in the race for popular supremacy.

The game of base ball has become our National Game because its integrity has been preserved through many years. For identically the same reason, the Spalding "Official National League" Ball has won its place in the high esteem of all devotees of the sport. Like the game in which it is used, its integrity is above suspicion.

It is well for the youth of America to learn the lesson that while the cheapest things are very seldom the best things, the best are always cheapest in the end. The price of the genuine Spalding "Official National League" Ball is $1.25 each—no more and no less. The market abounds with so-called "League Balls," all listed at $1.25 each, for the sole purpose of deceiving the purchaser and enabling the "just as good" dealer to work the discount scheme on the boy who is not posted.

This is the reason why bright boys always insist upon the Spalding Ball and decline to accept any substitute. To many parents, a ball is a ball; but to the American lad who knows, only a Spalding Ball is the genuine and Official Ball of the game, and substitution of "something equally as good" does not go with him, for he has learned that to become a good ball player and get the greatest pleasure out of the game, he must use the same ball that all the leading professional players use—and this is the Spalding "Official National League" Ball.

Spalding Trade-Mark Bats

Since 1877, when we introduced the Spalding line of Trade-Mark Bats, they have been recognized as standard by players to whom quality is a consideration. Wherever possible, we have improved both style and quality from time to time and the assortment as now made up comprises absolutely the most up-to-date and thoroughly trustworthy styles that can be produced. The timber used in their construction is seasoned in open sheds, exposed to the weather from two to three years before using, thus ensuring not only a lighter and stronger bat, but also retaining the life quality and driving power of the wood.

Spalding Base Ball Uniforms

FRED CLARKE,
 Manager-Captain of the Pittsburgh National League Team,
 Champions of the World.
 Outfitted Complete by
A. G. SPALDING & BROS.

For more than thirty years A. G. Spalding & Bros. have been making base ball clothing, and in that time have accumulated a superior knowledge of the requirements of the base ball player, so that Spalding Uniforms possess an advantage that even the wearer himself is unable to describe. He simply knows that the uniform fits him correctly and as an athletic outfit should, giving him perfect freedom in all his movements and yet looking trim and neat; and he knows also that the outfit is well made and of good material, because it wears like iron and he can generally use it two seasons.

Spalding Base Ball Uniforms and Equipment are used universally by all the principal Professional and Amateur Base Ball Teams in every country where Base Ball is played.

The Nos. 0 and 1 Uniforms listed below are furnished in the following colors: Navy Stripe, Green Stripe, Navy Blue Check, White, Blue Gray, Brown Gray, Dark Gray, Black, Green, Maroon, Navy Blue, Brown and Cardinal. Complete set of sample cards showing swatches of various colors and qualities of material that we actually furnish in our Base Ball Uniforms, mailed on application to any team, together with measurement blank and full instructions for measuring players for uniforms.

THE SPALDING UNIFORM No. 0—The Highest Grade Made

Workmanship and material in this uniform is of the very highest quality throughout. Used exclusively by all league and professional clubs for years past is sufficient evidence of its quality and durability.

Why Spalding Uniforms are Best

Because they are actually cut from measurements in the same manner as high class custom clothing, after making allowances necessary in an athletic outfit, and are not cut after block patterns simply to lessen manufacturing cost.

Because we make them ourselves in our own well ventilated and sanitary factories, the goods never leaving our own establishment from the time it comes in from the mill in a piece until it goes out a finished garment ready for the Base Ball player to put on.

THE INTERSCHOLASTIC UNIFORM No. 2

Made of same grade of material as our higher priced uniforms, but of lighter weight. This is one of our most popular suits and will give the best of satisfaction. Can usually be worn two seasons.

INTERSCHOLASTIC UNIFORM No. 2. Complete, $9.00 $7.50
Net price to clubs ordering for Entire Team. . . Suit,

We have on hand a special flannel, Royal Purple, dyed particularly for teams connected with the Order of Elks. While we do not recommend that this be made up solid color in suits, still it makes a beautiful combination as trimming on white flannel, and we are making these uniforms now in that way in Nos. 0, 1 and 2 qualities only.

THE MINOR LEAGUE UNIFORM No. M

Colors: Navy Blue, Blue Gray, Dark Gray, Brown Gray, and White.

We have supplied this uniform in the past to some of the more prominent of the Minor League teams on special order, and it has proven so popular and satisfactory that we have decided to add it to our regular line. Well made of very durable material.

MINOR LEAGUE UNIFORM No. M. Complete, $9.00 $7.50
Net price to clubs ordering for Entire Team. . . Suit,

Shirts in this Uniform will be supplied in lighter weight material, but of same quality as pants, but both will be furnished in same weight if desired

No extra charge for lettering shirts with name of club nor for detachable sleeves on above uniforms. Extra charge for all lettering on caps

Spalding Base Ball Uniforms

Spalding Uniforms for Amateur and Semi-Professional Base Ball clubs are made in the same careful manner and under exactly the same perfect conditions as the outfits we supply to the professional League Teams; in fact, the Amateur Team secures the benefit of the many special features that we develop from time to time through constant association with the principal league players, little items of construction that do not occur to the ordinary manufacturer, but which make all the difference in the world when it comes to actually wearing the uniforms for ball playing, we incorporate in our Uniforms, without extra charge. The amateur clubs buying Spalding Uniforms get the style, fit and finish of the League outfits, but at prices well within their means.

Spalding Junior and Youths' Uniforms

We make a specialty of our Junior and Youth's Uniforms to illustrate to the young player in a practical manner just what we mean by our claims of superiority in uniform manufacture. We use plenty of material in every article—nothing is skimped; the sewing and finishing is carefully done, and the uniforms not only look well, but they feel comfortable when put on and they give good service even under the roughest kind of usage.

Spalding Policy

A Standard Quality must be inceptably linked to a Standard Policy.

Without a definite and Standard Mercantile Policy, it is impossible for a manufacturer to long maintain a Standard Quality.

To market his goods through the jobber, a manufacturer must provide a profit for the jobber as well as the retail dealer. To meet these conditions of Dual Profits, the manufacturer is obliged to set a proportionately high list price on his goods to the consumer.

To enable the glib salesman, when booking his orders, to figure out attractive profits to both the jobber and retailer, these high list prices are absolutely essential; but their real purpose will have been served when the manufacturer has secured his order from the jobber, and the jobber has secured his order from the retailer.

However, these deceptive high list prices are not fair to the consumer, who does not, and, in reality, is not ever expected to pay these fancy list prices.

When the season opens for the sale of such goods, with their misleading but alluring high list prices, the retailer begins to realize his responsibilities, and grapples with the situation as best he can, by offering "special discounts," which vary with local trade conditions.

Under this system of merchandising, the profits to both the manufacturer and the jobber are assured; but as there is no stability maintained in the prices to the consumer, the keen competition amongst the local dealers invariably leads to a demoralized cutting of prices by which the profits of the retailer are practically eliminated.

This demoralization always reacts on the manufacturer. The jobber insists on lower, and still lower, prices. The manufacturer, in his turn, meets this demand for the lowering of prices by the only way open to him, viz.: the cheapening and degrading of the quality of his product.

The foregoing conditions became so intolerable that, ten years ago, in 1899, A. G. Spalding & Bros. determined to rectify this demoralization in the Athletic Goods Trade, and inaugurated what has since become known as "The Spalding Policy."

The "Spalding Policy" eliminates the jobber entirely, so far as Spalding Goods are concerned, and the retail dealer secures his supply of Spalding Athletic Goods direct from the manufacturer under a restricted retail price arrangement by which the retail dealer is assured a fair, legitimate and certain profit on all Spalding Athletic Goods, and the consumer is assured a Standard Quality and is protected from imposition.

The "Spalding Policy" is decidedly for the interest and protection of the users of Athletic Goods, and acts in two ways:

FIRST—The user is assured of genuine Official Standard Athletic Goods, and the same fixed prices to everybody.

SECOND—As manufacturers, we can proceed with confidence in purchasing at the proper time, the very best raw materials required in the manufacture of our various goods, well ahead of their respective seasons, and this enables us to provide the necessary quantity and absolutely maintain the Spalding Standard of Quality.

All retail dealers handling Spalding Athletic Goods are required to supply consumers at our regular printed catalogue prices—neither more nor less—the same prices that similar goods are sold for in our New York, Chicago and other stores.

All Spalding dealers, as well as users of Spalding Athletic Goods, are treated exactly alike, and no special rebates or discriminations are allowed to anyone.

Positively, nobody; not even officers, managers, salesmen or other employes of A. G. Spalding & Bros., or any of their relatives or personal friends, can buy Spalding Athletic Goods at a discount from the regular catalogue prices.

This, briefly, is the "Spalding Policy," which has already been in successful operation for the past ten years, and will be indefinitely continued.

In other words, "The Spalding Policy" is a "square deal" for everybody.
